DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) filed August 23, 2004 has been considered by the Examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hill (US 4,640,564).

Regarding claim 13, Hill discloses a cover (2) for a socket of an electrical outlet (see figure 1), the cover (2) comprising: a substantially planar frame (see figure 1, defined by reference numbers 16 and 30) having at least one opening (20) generally aligned with the socket of the electrical outlet (see figure 2), at least one door (46) shiftable between a blocking position generally blocking access to the opening and an open position generally permitting access to the opening (column 6 lines 18-35); locking means (see figure 1 or column 6 line 18-column 7 line 36) movable between a locking position substantially preventing shifting of the door from the blocking position to the open position and an unlocking position permitting shifting of the door from the blocking position to the open position (see figure 1), actuator means (64) movable in a shifting direction to move the locking means from the locking position to the unlocking position (column 7 lines 12-21), and translation means (54) movable in a translation direction to shift the door (46) from the blocking position to the unblocking position (column 6 lines 52-55).

Regarding claim 14, Hill discloses a cover (2) for a socket of an electrical outlet (see figure 1), the cover (2) comprising a frame (see figure 1, defined by reference numbers 16 and 30) having an opening (20) positioned to be alignable with the socket of the closes electrical outlet (see figure 2); a door (46) shiftable between a blocking position generally blocking access to the opening and an open position generally permitting access to the opening (column 6 lines 18-35); and a locking mechanism (see figure 1) operable connected to the door (46), the locking mechanism (see figure 1 or column 6 line 18-column 7 line 36) movable between a locking position substantially preventing shifting of the door from the blocking position to the open position and an unlocking position permitting shifting of the door (46) from the blocking position to the open position (column 7 lines 12-21), the movement of the locking mechanism (see figure 1) from the locking position to the unlocking position requiring disengagement of a locking element (64) of the locking mechanism from a locking feature while generally simultaneously requiring translation of a translation element (54) operably connected to the door (46) to shift the door from the blocking position to an unblocking position (column 3 lines 42-51 or column 4 lines 55-59).

Regarding claim 15, Hill discloses the cover (2) for a socket of an electrical outlet (see figure 1), wherein a spring member (58) is operably connected to the frame (16, 30) and the door (46) to bias the door to the blocking position (column 6 lines 52-55).

Regarding claim 16, Hill discloses the cover (2) for a socket of an electrical outlet (see figure 1), wherein the frame (16, 30) includes two openings (see figure 1) and a separate door (46) is provided for each opening (see figures 1 or 3).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1-12 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The primary reason for the indication of the allowability of claims 1-12 is:

Regarding claims 1-12, the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest in combination with the other claimed limitation of a cover for a socket of an electrical outlet comprising an actuator element of the locking mechanism movable in a shifting direction for movement of the locking mechanism from the locking position to the unlocking position, the shifting direction being generally perpendicular to the plane of the frame, and a translation element of the locking mechanism movable in a translation direction for shifting of the door from the blocking position to the unblocking position, the translation direction being generally parallel to the plane of the frame.

This limitation is found in claims 1-12, and is neither disclosed nor taught by the prior art of record, alone or in combination.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Patterson, Jr. (US 5,998,735), McBain et al (US 6,794,575), Blaess (US 6,545,218), Shoemaker (US 6,222,125), Barla (US 5,240,426), Engel et al

(US 4,925,755), Kneip (US 2,988,242) and Dola (US 3,865,456) disclose a cover for socket of an electrical outlet.
